occasion, if a grand formal event is to be memorable it needs to be held in exhilarating, stylish surroundings with a special distinctive flair and ambiance.

A major contributing factor to this formula is the implementation of integrated lighting controls, which seamlessly interface many different load types and lighting technologies in order to create the required atmosphere.

Sophisticated lighting controls allow designers the freedom to program and select scenes, which can switch from functional to decorative lighting, highlighting special features of architecture or superior interior and exterior design, in order to ensure every occasion is both a pleasurable and memorable experience. This is all achieved either automatically, by a central computer, via a touch screen panel or by simple wall mounted panels, allowing staff the freedom to fulfil their primary role of attending to the direct needs of the guests.

Elegant furnishings and imaginative lighting can lend exactly the right air of sophistication and distinction to hotel interiors and public spaces. Whenever a guest visits a hotel, first impressions are absolutely crucial. So whatever the
